

Brexit Paradigm

Brexit has many narratives too numerous to count and let alone to understand. The Book of Muckcross first published on 15th October, 2015 (since sold out) and acknowledged in writing from The Queen on 18th November, 2015, highlighted the potential chasm of minds between The Isles and The Continent prior to the Brexit Referendum on 23rd June, 2016. This fault line had been discovered in 2014 during this research that begun in the summer of 2013. It is important to refer to an earlier report 'Minds directly from The Jungle'.

BUCKINGHAM PALACE

18th November, 2015

Dear Mr. Allen,

I have been asked to write and thank you for your recent letter to The Queen which accompanied a copy from the first edition of your Book of Muckcross which you wished to present as a gift to Her Majesty.

I am to thank you for your thoughtfulness for The Queen which is most appreciated.

Yours sincerely,

Miss Jennie Vine
Deputy Correspondence Coordinator

Mr. John Allen.

Below, represents the variations of words spoken on The Isles since the first arrival of Homo - Sapiens directly from Africa by boat. The soliloquy ‘ To Be Or Not To Be’ is chosen, and is translated between the various ancient time worlds and locations, and continents and is used to compare with, both the actual words spoken then in ancient times and the words in English today and the mindsets borrowed by Shakespeare from French philosophers.

Mindsets have never changed on The Isles since the arrival of Homo- Sapiens from Africa and subsequent changes in the spoken languages around the The Isles does not alter the facts. The purpose of this exercise is to discuss the ‘common narrative’ used in the media and deal directly with the real causes. All islanders are part of this dialogue and should be seen to engage.

‘Mindsets’

Piis Ee-git

Ci Feck

Deédeét Feck

Da Fecker

Feck-di

(Homo sapiens- Black Africa

the hunter more than 10,000 years ago)

(all referenced in earlier submissions)

Piss Eegit

Feck

Daye dayet Feck

Da Fecker

Feck it

(Kerryman Ireland today or ask any Irish person)

To Be

“To Be

Or not to be

That is the question”

(blank)

(Shakespeare’s translation inspired by French Philosophers misunderstood to be his original)

Être

Être

Ou ne pas être

Telle est la question

(blank)

(French Philosophers in Paris source of the original soliloquy)

To call someone’s attention to wake up

To make a hole

No, make a hole

You call yourself a hole man

Now make a hole

(Straight Talk - workers)

The choice of words and language of the Black Jungle Hunter is almost the same as the the Kerryman Speak (found in local usage mostly in SW Ireland) untainted and unchanged after more than 10,000 years ago. The intentions of both are independent, impulsive and daring to go, and this mindset is what once predominated all over The Isles of Britain and Ireland. Understanding ourselves as islanders begins here first before any further progress commences. Kerry is a unique original active in real life depository of the earliest words and the understanding of the real mindset of all The Isles. In these lands the raw primal sense is revealed in a way that touches the soul of all islanders.

The chosen sample used, was by Shakespeare who borrowed his words in this soliloquy from French philosophers that procrastinates and immobilizes the mind. This is not the mind of all the islanders and will never be. The EU is a continent and is not just France; and continentals are in many ways alike. The art to adapt to conform as all islanders with the EU needs a new trust and bonding strategy. This is the missing key that has been lost in translation thus giving rise to chaos and mistrust: and Brexit.

Ireland alone, now economically partitioned from The Isles, is unable to lead and show a vision for the future of Europe, because this was never part of its recent history to do so in the past, and its culture has always been part of the completeness of The Isles in all its foreign engagements. Current Irish political reality and sovereign responsibility in the EU is recycled rhetoric when it comes to serious engagements and promulgated by overpaid civil servants that are simply operatives/ advisors and not real successful empowered negotiators. In its present form its structures are doomed to failure from the start.

In a divided isles, there are many weakly divided regions and no voice, and this represents the return to insular tribal ancient politics that is preyed on from afar. Recent political alliances since 1922, the year the Irish state was founded, can all change easily and that includes the USA, an ally whose success in Ireland has distorted the truth and economic perception of the real Irish GNP performance as a nation and the false perceptions of itself.

The failure to amend the algorithm of the first words spoken on the isles by homo-sapiens and the inclusion of that ancient past of the history of the isles, diminishes the effectiveness of the English language as it should be in the real world where that matters and endangers the liberties professed. The steadfastness of the islanders shows the once alchemy of the unprecedented trust between man and man, islanders and islander to remain unbroken and intact, and to form the original mindset of homo sapiens and the Kingdom of Kerry that once ruled all the isles in an ancient kingdom. Relationship with the EU is defined by continuity embodiment of a political conduct whos origins were first practiced on the isles by homo sapiens from West Africa that evolved subsequently; moderation a self-belief between islanders to survive as a unity with diversity; and separation of original ancient social DNA (Mindset) is different on the isles and makes this place unique.

The island of Ireland continues to evolve and ancient history is repeating itself after more than 10,000 years later, with more arrivals from West Africa with their stories that belong to the earlier stories already written in the local Irish landscapes, music & song, politics and sports, boats and technology, fiscal prudence and spiritual practice and this algorithm must be recorded and reconnected to complete the new social order that would make the island a better place to live for everyone.

Code Napoleon remains the emperor's supreme lasting legacy and that remains relevant today in the EU and will diminish further the current Irish bureaucracy that has mirrored many sovereign failures in the past including its recent banking system of corruption. The turning of the screw, previously performed by Alaric the Goth in Rome or Genghis Khan in certain parts of the middle east, will once more be seen, but this time in Ireland , where all its bureaucrats will be killed off leaving no fonctionnaire standing in what may become an indigenous wasteland.

You can follow other reports on twitter : @AfricanIrishAr1