

Connecting The Colors of The Social Algorithm with more stories

Walking the long beaches in Senegal and Gambia and listening to the ebb and flow of the waves of the Atlantic Ocean, there is an ever presence of something familiar. Looking into the vast ocean something resonates within.

I have walked many times the long sandy beaches of Ballybunnion, Co. Kerry, Ireland when the tide was out and the music played by the tides was the same tune and rhythm and with possibly the same baton.

There is an eerie sense of presence in both places that is recognizable to be the same and the chorus played holds in harmony the full stretch between the two continents.

Somewhat further out the colorful Puffin bird passes by making its own sound that makes this ocean unique.
