

The Elbow Settlement for Fashionista or The Left Bank

Ptolemy's Map of Ireland (see map elsewhere)

Macolincon

Macolincon is the location point for tribes to meet socially and to allow their offspring to mingle and engage in intensive copulating that involves the arts of attraction and fashion and the exchange of gifts. The actual location is not on the island in Lymericke but at that point of the curraghgowr falls, known as the elbow and located on land. It is an ongoing social activity throughout the year and its location is convenient for all tribes that arrive by boats from the heartlands of the island of Ireland and the ocean. Due to this social event fashion / fabric designers and couture plied their trade with wealthy primal hunters. This may have been the precursor to the renowned famous lace fabrics.